

EXL announces the release of its LifePRO® 20 Digital Insurance Platform

February 18, 2021

The end-to-end solution accelerates speed to market with a flexible, service architecture and no-code configurability

NEW YORK, Feb. 18, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- EXL [NASDAQ: EXLS], a leading provider of Life and Annuity software, enables insurance carriers to prepare for tomorrow's challenges with the launch of LifePRO® 20, an innovative digital policy administration platform.

LifePRO® 20 is a powerful end-to-end digital solution that supports the entire insurance policy administration lifecycle – from new business to claim – for an extensive array of individual, worksite and group life, health, and annuity products. LifePRO 20 enables companies to quickly bring new products to market, fuel growth and manage operations to drive down cost.

The power of LifePRO® can be extended even further when paired with LDS, EXL's new business and underwriting module providing a fully integrated "digital platform in a box" from new business to claims.

Improve business results with a proven low-risk solution

With LifePRO 20, EXL continues its track record of providing modern, world class solutions to its 50+ carrier customer base, the largest in North America¹. EXL is committed to providing carriers crucial digital features such as:

- Improved customer experience with a simplified, intuitive user interaction
- 12,000+ fully configurable product rules
- Expanded integration via granular, purpose-built micro-services.
- Seamless integration for Advanced Analytics and AI
- Expanded support for a broad set of insurance lines of business
- Cloud enabled of Public and private deployment

"Our clients tell us they need flexibility and speed from their policy administration solutions to drive better business results. LifePRO® 20 enables them to launch insurance products more quickly and easily than ever before with out-of-the-box support for a broad range of life, health and annuity products," said Keith Johnson, Senior Vice President, EXL. "Additionally, an improved user experience ensures that service personnel can efficiently handle client interactions and quickly respond to customers' needs".

With LifePRO 20, EXL continues its track record of providing modern, world class solutions to the life and annuity market. LifePRO has been recognized for many years as having the largest customer base in North America², with the most carriers introducing new products and managing closed blocks of business. This new iteration ensures those carriers a continued path of innovation, and provides a strategic, enterprise capable platform for new entrants and established carriers alike.
