EXL Landa to Host 2012 Healthcare Symposium in Washington, D.C.

CHICO, Calif., Nov. 6, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- EXL Landa will host its annual 2012 Healthcare Symposium at The Westin Georgetown in Washington, D.C., November 14-16.

Attendees from large health plans and hospitals will join their peers, consultants and EXL Landa partners and meet for two and a half days to network and discuss top-of-mind healthcare issues, medical management trends, health research and more.

ExlService Holdings, Inc. (EXL) will welcome attendees by introducing its acquisition of Landacorp, now EXL Landa, and share how the purchase will improve EXL Landa's ability to provide healthcare technology solutions to more than 50 million members managed on its' CareRadius suite. They will also review how EXL will benefit from the acquisition by establishing them as a leader in healthcare by integrating care management technology, clinical outsourcing services and focused analytics.

Symposium sessions will be presented by industry experts on a variety of timely topics. The keynote presentation, 'Technology and the Healthcare Industry' will be presented by Daniel Kraft, M.D., a Stanford and Harvard trained physician-scientist with more than 20 years' experience in clinical practice and biomedical research. He will review global innovations, advancements and current trends in healthcare technology.

The subsequent sessions will include updates on the ACO market, the status of healthcare reform after the election, compliance and accreditation standards, specifically URAC and NCQA, as well as the latest insights on emerging healthcare trends, including molecular diagnostics and geomedicine.

EXL Landa and Varolii Corporation will also discuss their strategic partnership and how Varolii's mobile technologies will be integrated with CareRadius to drive outcomes and savings with best practice mobile strategies. EXL Landa will also host a CareRadius user group to present CareRadius 2.0 enhancements. Participants will learn how CareRadius 2.0 provides better tools to engage members and more self-service options for providers, as well as how current clients are using the system to create better operational efficiencies.

"At this year's Symposium, we aim to help our attendees prepare for the future of healthcare by covering emerging trends, compliance and accreditation standards, upcoming changes related to healthcare reform, and updated EXL Landa offerings," said Jay Dunlap, General Manager of EXL Landa. "With a great mix of speakers, sessions and networking opportunities, I'm confident that attendees will walk away from this event with a better understanding of what is required to prepare for the changing healthcare landscape and how EXL Landa can help them."

Symposium attendees will be invited to a special dinner event at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History, followed by an evening tour of the national monuments.
